Analysis of Laboratory and Field Studies of Reproductive Toxicity in Birds Exposed to Dioxin-Like Compounds for Use in Ecological Risk Assessment	Date: 1/7/2004
Action Type: Notice, Information	Cite: 69 FR 920
Summary: EPA has released a final report titled, Analysis of Laboratory and Field Studies of Reproductive Toxicity in Birds Exposed to Dioxin-Like Compounds for Use in Ecological Risk Assessment (EPA/600/R-03/114F). This report is intended to assist ecological risk assessors who must characterize risks to birds from exposure to dioxin-like chemicals. Those chemicals include the halogenated dibenzo-dioxins, dibenzo-furans, and biphenyls that have the same mode of action as 2,3,7,8-tetrachlorodibenzo-p-dioxin. In particular, they include the coplanar PCBs, which account for most of the toxicity of PCB mixtures. The exposure metric used in this report is "g/kg" of egg as toxic equivalent concentrations. The report indicates that compounds have been shown to severely affect birds in contaminated sites and regions by causing mortality, deformity and inhibited development of embryos and hatchlings. The report is available at: http://cfpub.epa.gov/ncea/cfm/recordisplay.cfm?deid=56937.

National Emission Standards for Hazardous Air Pollutants: Surface Coating of Miscellaneous Metal Parts and Products	Date: 1/2/2004
Action Type: Final Rule	Cite: 69 FR 129
Summary: EPA has finalized the national emission standard for hazardous air pollutants (NESHAP) for miscellaneous metal parts and products surface coating operations located at major sources of hazardous air pollutants (HAP). The rule does not apply to surface coating or a coating operations that meets any of the criteria below: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Surface coating sources that use only HAP free coatings. - Surface coating that occurs at research or laboratory facilities, - surface coating as part of janitorial, building, and facility maintenance operations, - Surface coating that occurs at noncommercial hobby shops. - Coatings used in volumes of less than 50 gallons per year, provided that the total volume of coatings exempt does not exceed 250 gallons per year at the facility. - Surface coating of metal parts and products performed on-site at DOD, NASA, Coast Guard, and National Guard installations. - Surface coating operations covered by other NESHAP regulations. The rule limits organic HAP emissions for several coating subcategories. The emission limit is expressed as the mass of organic HAP emissions per volume of coating solids (kilograms HAP/liter HAP/gal of coating of coating solids) used during each 12-month compliance period. The rule allow several compliance options as follows: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - comply by applying materials (coatings, thinners and/or other additives, and cleaning materials) that meet the emission limits, either individually or collectively, during each compliance period. - comply by using a capture system and add-on control device to meet the emission limits. - comply by using a combination of both approaches.
Potential Impact or Relevance: Potential interest to industrial facilities that perform coating operations.	CFR References: 40 CFR 63

Aquatic Life Criteria Document for Tributyltin	Date: 1/5/2004
Action Type: Notice	Cite: 69 FR 342
Summary: EPA is establishing aquatic life water quality criteria for tributyltin (TBT). Except possibly where locally important species are very sensitive, freshwater and saltwater aquatic life and their uses should not be affected unacceptably if the one-hour average concentration of TBT does not exceed the acute criterion more than once every three years on average and if the four-day average concentration of TBT does not exceed the chronic criterion more than once every three years on average. The final TBT criteria concentrations are: - Freshwater: acute criterion - 0.46 ug/L; chronic criterion - 0.072 ug/L - Saltwater: acute criterion - 0.42 ug/L; chronic criterion - 0.0074 ug/L In 1997 EPA initially proposed a saltwater chronic criterion for TBT of 0.010 µg/L. In EPA's December 2002 draft, this was reduced to 0.001 ug/l, then increased in the final criteria document to 0.0074 ug/L. TBT is an organotin compound used primarily as a biocide in antifouling paints. It is extremely toxic to aquatic life and is an endocrine-disrupting chemical that causes severe reproductive effects in aquatic organisms. TBT is extremely stable and resistant to natural degradation in water. These water quality criteria may be used by States to establish water quality standards for TBT. The document is available at: http://www.epa.gov/waterscience/criteria/tributyltin/tbt-final.pdf
